R. B. Martin had an exciting pistological with a negro burglar who was attempting to break into a laboratory on Tenth South and First West streets early yesterday corning. Though several shots were exchanged, both contestants came out of the aftray uninjured.

Martin was conducting some chemical experiments in the laboratory early yesterday morning when he was attracted by a noise at the window. He discovered that a negro was trying to break into the room. When the burglar saw Martin he tried to escape. Martin drew a revolver and fired at the retreating thief. The negro turned and fired back as he ran. Martin fired several other shots at the fugitive, none of which took effect.

Shortly before noon yesterday Officer Dennis Sullivan arrested a negro in that vicinity who answered the description of the burglar. He was locked up at the police station but it developed that he was not the man and he was released.

SOUTH END FLOOD SUBSIDES

Situation No Longer Serious, Though Many Yards Are Still Under Water.

The flood situation in the southern part of the city was considerably less serious rhe water fell several inches Wednesday night and although there is more water in the canals now than at any time during the last twenty years the situation is no longer regarded as serious.

Street Supervisor Jake Raleigh, accompanied by Mayor Thompson, made a tour of inspection of the submerged sections of the city yesterday, and they say that they found conditions worst between Fourth and Fifth West and Seventh and Eighth South streets. In this block many yards are under water and the people are forced to resort to all sorts of shifts to get in and out of their houses dry shod. But the water is lowering steadily and in a day or so at the present rate the flood should be a thing of the past. yesterday than on the preceding day.

Mayor Thompson yesterday announced that the building of a ditch from Fifth West along Seventh South street to the Jordan river would be commenced at once, and after this is done it is felt that there will be but little danger of a repetition of conditions of the past few days.
